

WESTERLY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Committee Appointed to Draft Constitution—Gilt Edge and Federal Expresses to Stop Regularly—Rhode Island Tuberculosis Exhibit—Barber Rose Reported Left For Parts Unknown—$50,000 at Auction For Westerly & Connecticut Railway Company.

Miss Julia Smith presided at a meeting of parties interested in the formation of a local historical society which was held in the juvenile library department in the Memorial building. Miss Smith is the prime mover in the project and she explained in detail the need and benefit of such an organization in Westerly. Among those who were invited to give their views on the subject was Ethan Wilcox, librarian emeritus of the Westerly public library. He told of the early formation of the Pawcatuck Valley Historical society, of which he was secretary, and which was never formally abandoned, and of his individual efforts in carrying on the objects of that organization. He had been for many years collecting for preservation documents and articles of local and general historical interest. As a result the Westerly library is now rich with articles of historic value and a nucleus for a museum that was sure to materialize in the years to come. It could not be expected that the collection in the library would be given into the custody of any historical society or that the library association would discontinue the collection of articles of historic value for preservation.

Mr. Wilcox said his preference was a continuation of the plan of the library association, so far as went the collection and preservation of articles of historic interest, rather than an historical society plan, for in the library the articles would be on exhibition every weekday and evening, while in a historical society the exhibition would be chiefly for the benefit of members. He did not wish to be misunderstood as being opposed to the formation of an historical society, for he was not, and would be glad to be enrolled in the membership.

Librarian Joseph L. Peacock said he endorsed in a general way the sentiment expressed by Mr. Wilcox and encouraged the formation of a historical society, but he thought it was suggested, and believed the Memorial building a proper place for the headquarters of the society. He thought accommodations could be furnished for meeting purposes in the second story of the building. He said that perhaps the two Grand Army posts, with separate quarters in the building, might be consolidated, and then permanent quarters could be furnished the historical society.

Thomas Perry also spoke favorably to the formation of a society and made motion, which prevailed, that Miss Smith appoint a committee of five to draft a constitution and by-laws and make report to a meeting to be held Jan. 14. Miss Smith appointed as that committee the following: Rev. Joseph L. Peacock, Rev. Samuel M. Cathcart, Mrs. Frederick C. Buffum, Mrs. Thomas Perry and Mrs. Edward M. Burke. By unanimous vote Miss Smith was added to the committee.

Frank W. Coy, chairman of the Westerly Board of Trade committee on traffic and municipal improvement, has been in communication with railroad officials for increased accommodations for Westerly with special reference to having the Gilt Edge express, west-bound, to arrive in Westerly at 7.35 p. m., make regular stops here. Since the change in timetables, this train has made conditional stops; that is, for the accommodation of passengers for Bridgeport and beyond. In consequence no dependence could be placed on that train for passenger or mail service, and there was not assurance of early morning delivery of mail in New York on trains leaving Westerly later. Postmaster Butler, however, took a chance and sent mail matter regularly to this train, but was not always sure of connection.

Wednesday Mr. Coy received communication from railroad authority stating that the change in time being completed to have the westbound Gilt Edge train make regular stop at Westerly. It was also through the efforts of the Board of Trade that the eastbound Federal express, which arrives at 7.45 a. m., makes regular stop at Westerly, thus giving a through express train to Boston in the morning.

To forward its educational campaign throughout the state, the Rhode Island Anti-Tuberculosis association is to have a small traveling exhibit which will show some of the causes of tuberculosis and how the conditions which lead to the disease may be removed. Special attention is to be directed to this exhibit to nursing work, school sanitation and hygiene, dairies and the housing of mill employees. With the cooperation of the secretary of the state board of health, motion pictures will be used in connection with the lectures and stereoscopic views. It is intended that considerable time will be devoted to the work in parts of the state where education along this line has not been much developed.

If Peter M. Rose responds when his case is called for trial Friday in the Third district court, the court officials will be surprised, as Peter at the present time is to them in parts unknown, and the sureties on his bond of $600, Mr. and Mrs. Purpurio, have lost faith in mankind. It is alleged that the owners of the furniture in Peter's barber shop have taken possession of the same and at least one of the barbers is searching for employment elsewhere and declares he has no knowledge of the whereabouts of Peter. Several weeks ago Rose was arrested on the charge of embezzlement in connection with liquor raids made in Bradford. Peter, it is alleged, secured $17 from each of the defendants, giving them to understand that $5 was for the judge, $5 for the town collector, $5 for chief of police and $2 for himself, and were assured that they would be immune from arrest after the cases against the seized liquors were disposed of. But the men were arrested, brought into court and penalized.

The charge against Rose resulted and he was arrested, charged with embezzlement from two of the four men who had been found guilty of violating the liquor law. Rose was adjudged guilty in the district court, but the case was dismissed in the superior court by reason of defective complaint. Rose was subsequently rearrested upon complaint more carefully drawn. In court his attorney entered demurrer and the judge took same under consideration. At the next session of the court the demurrer was overruled and the case was assigned for trial on Friday of the present week. While his attorney has no knowledge of the whereabouts of his client, he has hope that he will appear for trial on Friday.

The premises, property and franchises of the Westerly and Connecticut Railway company, which includes so much of the Norwich and Westerly traction company that is located in the town of Westerly, state of Rhode Island, was sold at public auction Wednesday morning by Auctioneer Russell L. Slocum. The purchaser was Harry M. Verrill of Portland, Me., and the purchase price was $50,000. The only person interested in the sale present, beside the purchaser, was Robert W. Perkins of Norwich, the general manager of the trolley roads centering in Westerly. The purchase included the franchises, the trolley road from the White Rock bridge to Canal street in Westerly, and also the trolley road to Pleasant View, and included all the real estate, lands, tenements and all other rights, titles and interests therein and all buildings thereon. It is needless to add that the sale will in no way affect the present management. Next Wednesday the Pawcatuck Valley street railway, with route from the railway station to Watch Hill, and all property connected therewith, including the franchise, will be sold at auction, subject to a mortgage of $50,000 and other incumbrances. This sale will better establish the title of the holding company.

At the annual meeting of Granite City Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, officers were elected as follows: Charles A. Crandall, past consul; Willard P. Hall, consul; Frank Trimback, adviser; William E. Martin, clerk; Charles T. McSparrin, banker; William E. Burk, escort; C. William Murphy, watchman; Herbert J. Geary, sentry; Dr. Samuel C. Webster, physician; Elmer E. Clark, trustee for three years.

Dr. Hartman Speaks About Catarrh of the Lungs

S. B. HARTMAN, M.D., Columbus, Ohio.

As soon as he heard what people were saying he was very quick and emphatic in his denial of any intent on his part to create such an impression.

No, said the Doctor I do not claim to have any magical cures. I do not claim to have a cure for anything. Judging from the number of letters I receive, however, concerning Mrs. Eberlein's case, from people who have similar complaints, I should judge that catarrh of the lungs is very prevalent. The number of people afflicted are increasing. In spite of the strenuous efforts of health boards catarrh prevails more and more every year.

No, I do not claim to have a miraculous cure. I only recite some of the things the people tell me who take Pe-ru-na. The case of Mrs. Eberlein, for instance. She was apparently dying of catarrh of the lungs. Her physician had told her so. Many people who had seen others die under similar conditions thought her to be dying. She commenced taking Pe-ru-na and recovered.

Now, I do not undertake to explain her recovery. I certainly do not undertake to say that Pe-ru-na will cure anybody in the last stages of catarrh of the lungs. I make no such claim. But I do undertake to say this. As long as there is life there is hope. The doctors are liable to be mistaken. They often condemn people to die when they do not die. They say, "Mrs. So-and-so cannot live twenty-four hours," and then Mrs. So-and-so gets well. They say, "Mr. So-and-so has not a ghost of a show of living," but Mr. So-and-so gets well. Now, what is it that cures such cases?

Every doctor knows that it is the vitality of the patient. The last grain of vitality was not exhausted, just enough vitality left to make one more struggle, and the disease was overcome.

Now, it may happen that Pe-ru-na is taken at the critical moment in the patient's struggle against disease. The patient may have been losing ground day after day. At last the fight seems hopeless; death inevitable. Some one suggests Pe-ru-na. The patient takes it without any hope. The medicine actually does infuse new life into the circulation. They feel its genial influence as soon as it is swallowed. This constitutes the turning point in their disease. The little assistance which Pe-ru-na gives Nature at this important point turns the tide of affairs in favor of the patient.

Not that Pe-ru-na cures incurable diseases. No, not at all. But Pe-ru-na does lend a little much-needed assistance at a time when a feather weight on one side or the other of the balances turns the scales in favor of or against the patient. Scores and scores of times Pe-ru-na has come in at these critical moments and saved patients from imminent death. At least it seems so. I have bushels of letters reciting such things.

Pe-ru-na is a diffusive stimulant. It stimulates the circulation. It causes a warm glow of health to pervade the mucous membranes of the body. The mucous membranes of the stomach, alimentary canal, kidneys, bladder, lungs, all the mucous membranes are apparently revived, rejuvenated, re-endowed with the glow of health. That is what Pe-ru-na will do. And this often saves life. There can be no doubt of it.

Whether the case be one of catarrh of the lungs or any other chronic prostrating illness, the right stimulant at the right time, in the right doses, does the work. Explain it as you may, such things are happening every day.

I prefer not to use the word cure. I do not like the sound of it. I do not like the idea that people generally attach to the word. But that Pe-ru-na helps Nature, and helps Nature sometimes when she is sadly in need of help, that I know to be the truth. That I do not hesitate to proclaim. That is exactly what occurred in the case of Mrs. Eberlein, the account of which has caused so much comment.

If I or any of my immediate relatives had catarrh of the lungs, Pe-ru-na would be given a thorough trial. I assure you. That being the case, I can conscientiously advise any one else to do the same.
